

MUSIC SOCIETY

helping the makers of music thrive

create legacy + build wealth

Simplifying the business of music production.

Music Society Guild is a non-profit professional membership organization that supports building generational wealth in music production for hands-on innovators, music producers, sound engineers, vocal producers and mixers through education in the business of music and collecting royalties, protecting rights, and providing accessibility and transparency to resources and opportunities to engage and build success.

Music Society Guild also manages the voting and scholarship program for Track Awards, a televised annual music award ceremony with a scholarship competition celebrating the art of music production.

In 2021, 70% of the royalties in audio streaming went to music older than 18 months. Spotify distributed $7 billion in 2021 to royalties. Without proper support, music producers never see these payments.

Music producers need a voice.

Young producers do not know their rights.

Complicated system of non-payment.

Hundreds of millions of dollars unpaid royalties.

Profits on catalog music increasing.
